STILL A CANDIDATE.

JOHN R. M'LEAN'S WITHDRAWAL IN OHIO ONLY A BLUFF.

IS DIRECTING THE CAMPAIGN.

DRIVEN TO SHELTER BY THE BIG DEMAND FOR MONEY.

Republicans Sure of an Overwhelming Majority Among Ohio Farmers This Year-Free Silver Won't Fool the People This Time.

Columbus, O., Oct. 20.-Nobody at the Democratic headquarters here pretends to deny that Mr. John R. McLean of the Cincinnati Enquirer is still a candidate for the United States senate. Men smile when his letter of withdrawal is referred to, and they explain that it was a bluff, Mr. Mc-Lean was compelled to seek shelter. The fight was getting too hot for him, and there was too much demand for his money. He is still directing the campaign and furnishing all the funds that are required for ordinary expenses, but he is too discreet to permit himself to stand as a target or be an issue. His opponents have treated him very generously thus far in the state canvass. They have let his personal record alone. Their speeches and campaign literature do not refer to his private life, but to his political career only, and his public acts and relations. They assert that he is a candidate for the United States senate in order that he may be better able to look after his financial interests at Washington, where he owns the gas works and the principal street car line. But they are mistaken. Mr. McLean is famous for looking after his own affairs, but he is not without political aspirations, and has a very ambitious wife. He has been looking for a seat in the United States senate for twenty years, and was a candidate for president at the last Democratic national

The Republicans will get an overwhelm ing majority among the farmers this year, where they were weakest and suffered most at the last presidential election. McKin-ley's gains were in the cities, where the gold standard sentiment was the strongest. His losses were in the country, where the free silver propaganda had found fertile soil among people who had seen the prices of their products and the reward of their labor gradually sinking for several years and grasped at any remedy. This year the formers throughout Ohio are more prosperous than they have been since they can remember. The tariff on wool has enabled them to sell their clipping for nearly as much as they received for it during the en-much as they received for it during the entire four years of Democratic administration, and has more than doubled the value of their sheep.

The price of cattle, horses, hogs and all other live stock has advanced also, but not so rapidly, and garden and farm produce of every sort is in active demand at prices that have not been paid for years. And all this in the face of the dismal predictions that were made by the Democratic campaign orators last fall as to what would happen if McKinley was elected.

"I've been fooled four times by these calamity cranks," said a farmer in Ashtabula the other day, "but I've told my boys that if I am ever tempted to vote against the Republican ticket again to lock me up in a lunatic asylum without any proceedings." You will hear similar remarks everywhere throughout Northern Ohio and other agricultural sections of the state.

Good crops and prices have always affected the Republican vote, but it will be much greater than ever this year, because of the predictions referred to and the fact that McKinley has actually proved to have been the advance agent of prosperity.

Petaoes that were selling for 15 cents a bushel a year ago are now bringing 50 certs; buckwheat, which was 25 cents, 1s bushel a year ago are now bringing 50 cents; buckwheat, which was 25 cents, is now 40; oats, wheat, corn and all other stupies have gone up in a similar manner, and, although the crop is not as large as it has been sometimes, a farmer can get cash for "any old thing," as they say, and everybody is happy. Last Saturday afternoon a farmer came twinkle in his eye and inquired if anybody Missouri Day Last Saturday Was a Big had seen So-and-So.

"He came out our way last fall with a big Bryanite from Michigan to hold a meeting," continued the cheerful farmer, "and they stayed all night at my house. He told me then that if McKinley was elected he'd sell me all the wheat that was raised in Ashtabula county for 50 cents a bushel and all the oats for 10 cents, and, as I sold my buckwheat to-day and have a leetle more cash than I need just now, I thought I would pay him the first installment," and he roared with laughter so loud that he might have been heard in the thought I would pay him the first installment." and he roared with laughter so loud that he might have been heard in the middle of the street.

"He told me too, that store goods would be twice as high as ever and that the keepers wouldn't take nothing but gold for 'em. Durned if I didn't get skeert and voted the Bryan ticket. I've come to call So-and-So on his trade, but I ham't been able to find him."

The Republicans who went off on the sliver issue last year have to enquire an exasperating amount of "joshing," and the Democratic meetings are few and thin yattended. The Republicans ask too many annoying questions. The failure of silver to maintain a parity with wheat is a phenomenon which the Democratic oraters are unable to explain, and none of them ever ascends a platform without being requested to do so.

The country merchants are guite as prosescends a platform without being request-d to do so.

The country merchants are quite as pros-

The country merchants are quite as prosperous as the farmers, notwithstanding the advance in the prices of imported articles due to the Dingley bill. Business has not been so good since 1892. Their customers have been economizing. They have not purchased anything but articles of actual necessity for several years, but now that they have a good crop and can sell it for cash at good prices their wives and daughers are indulcing in new gooms and hats ers are indulging in new gowns and hats and wraps and new carpets and furniture, which they have wanted for years but couldn't afford to buy.

The Republican party gets the credit for an this improvement, and it will swell the Republican vote in the agricultural dis-tricts, although there is always a very light poli the year after a presidential elec-tion, and the Democrats are usually suc-cessful in carrying the state.

The only danger of his defeat is in the Republican apathy in the close districts and in the combination between the Democrats and the reformers in Cincinnati.

Then, there is a street in Cairo with one dorskey and no camels, but they have the 'bum bum' candy, and all the rest of it. 'Missouri day was a great success, though there should have been a much larger attendance. The Missouri party numbered only sixty persons, while sixty-nine people came all the way from Vermont on Vermont day. Colonel Estey was there to talk his Estey organs, and the man who makes the wooden butter buckets used by the Kansas City packing houses was there. Every Vermonter talked business and was a hustler. It was rather a poor commentary on the enterprise of the business men of this state that so few attended on this day, for the South is a field of immense richness and holds out the most alluring opportunities for the cultivation of closer commercial relations. It was, therefore, somewhat disappointing that only sixty persons should come half the distance and less, traversed by sixty-nine people from the Maple Sugar state. But Missouri day was a great success. We were received by Governor Taylor, and escorted by a detachment of federal cavalry. In the interior of the wagon are cots upon which the four men who travel in it repose at night.

The young man who delivered the speech is named J. J. Dwyer. He made use of the same old stock arguments and claptrap that were used by the Bryanites during the last national campaign, and attempted to account for the present prosperity by saying that failures of crops in other lands had forced up the price of wheat.

"But I want to tell you," he shouted, "the farmers ought to be getting $1.50 a bushel for their wheat instead of $1, and they would, too, if silver were being coined upon a parity with gold."

At the conclusion of Mr. Dwyer's speech the other members of the party circulated in the crowd and solicited subscriptions for a monthly paper edited by Harvey. The wagon is drawn by a single span of horses. The party left Chicago five months ago in this wagon and has traveled through Illinois, Iowa, Northern Missouri and Northeastern Kansas. Topeka, Kas., Oct. 29.—(Special.) John Logan, chairman of the Osage Populist central committee, is in the city to-day imploring the Pop state officers to render him some assistance in the present cam-paign. He has notified them that there is scarcely a possibility of the Popocrats win ning in his county this fall. He claims that the placing of convict mined coal in open competition with free mined coal has everlastingly killed the Populist party ong the miners. The Osage miners have not been making much money for several years past, but this season they have fared worse than during any previous year. Penitentiary mined coal has crowded Osage coal out of the market in many places, and as a consequence the miners do not get much work to do. A canvass was made a few days ago, and it was ascertained tha the Osage miners had made an average of GEN. MILTON MOORE BACK FROM less than $5 a month each since the Populist state administration began to sell prison coal in the open market. The miners protested, but it did no good. The administration kept on on establishing agencies in every locality. Now there is a revolt, and Chairman Logan says that the miners will vote against the Popocratic nominees to a man. He wants Leedy, Little and other officials to come down there and make speeches in the interest of the county ticket. He says they can't make matters worse, and they may possibly do a little good. from which they had originally been mentioned. In the case of Colonel Sam F.

his friends that he would be thoroughly acceptable to all elements of the Republican

Along the south wall and occupying the entire length of the south aisle east of the Thirteenth street entrance is a poultry and game market, where fowls of all kinds and various varieties of small game, all dressed, are artistically displayed. ber 31 at the old Y. M. C. A. auditorium, corner of Ninth and Locust streets. The revival will close November 14, according to present arrangements. Dr. Walker will be assisted by the Harris singers, whose singing is always made a special feature of Sinews of War for George.

The Henry George sympathizers who organized the Single Tax Club were to have held a meeting at the Midland last evening. to keep up interest in the work, but owing to keep up interest in the work, but owing to the small number that responded to the call no formal meeting was held, the faithful contenting themselves with sitting in the lobby and talking over the recent letter Mr. George issued and the prospects for the campaign. They take great delight in the fact that Mr. George is attracting so much attention and construe the attention as meaning that he is considered very much in the race. The club announced that it would forward another $50 for the good of the cause on Saturday.
